

Rizzuto's Wood-Fired Kitchen and Bar Welcomes Playhouse on Park's
"The Mystery of Irma Vep" Cast Party

(L-R): Tim Hache (Light Design), Darlene Zoller (Co-Founder/Artistic Director Playhouse on Park), Sean Harris (Actor, Co-Founder/Artistic Director), Peter James Cook (Director), Bill Lozzi (Restaurant Manager), Rich Hollman (actor), Veronique Hurley(Scenic Charge), Ryan Bell (Production Stage Manager), Dawn Loveland (Director of Education), and Tracy Flater (Co-Founder/Executive Director Playhouse on Park).

Directed by Peter James Cook, Charles Ludlam's "The Mystery of Irma Vep" opened to a packed house Friday at, West Hartford's own, Playhouse on Park. Following the Opening Night performance, the cast and crew gathered at Rizzuto's Wood-Fired Kitchen and Bar to celebrate and unwind. The popular Italian spot in Blue Back Square prepared a delicious array of rustic appetizers along with dinner, drinks, and desserts for party-goers to enjoy in the warm, sophisticated atmosphere. Attendees could not have been more pleased with the friendly service and delectable food and Playhouse on Park thanks the restaurant immensely for its hospitality!

"The Mystery of IrmaVep" is a beloved romp that pays tribute to gothic classics and works of Alfred Hitchcock amongst others. One of the most produced comedies on the American stage, the play runs in a limited engagement at Playhouse on Park (244 Park Road West Hartford, CT 06119) through January 29th. For more information, please visit www.playhouseonpark.org

